

UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT
SOUTHERN DISTRICT OF CALIFORNIA

EL CAJON LUXURY CARS, INC., dba Bob
 Baker Lexus, a California Corporation,

Plaintiff,

vs.

TOKIO MARINE & NICHIDO FIRE
 INSURANCE CO., LTD.,

Defendant.

CASE NO. 11CV1248 JLS (MDD)

ORDER GRANTING DEFENDANT'S MOTION TO DISMISS COMPLAINT

(ECF No. 15)

Presently before the Court is Defendant Tokio Marine and Nichido Fire Insurance Co., Ltd.'s ("Defendant" or "Tokio Marine") motion to dismiss complaint. (Mot. to Dismiss, ECF No. 15) Also before the Court are Plaintiff El Cajon Luxury Cars, Inc., dba Bob Baker Lexus's ("Plaintiff" or "Bob Baker Lexus") response in opposition, (Resp. in Opp'n, ECF No. 17), and Defendant's reply, (Reply in Supp., ECF No. 18). The Court heard oral argument on February 23, 2012, and the matter was thereafter taken under submission. Having considered the parties' arguments and the law, the Court GRANTS Defendant's motion to dismiss, but gives Bob Baker Lexus an opportunity to amend.

BACKGROUND

This Order incorporates the factual and procedural history as set forth in this Court's prior Order dismissing Plaintiff's complaint. (Order, Nov. 8, 2011, at 1–2, ECF No. 13) In that Order, the Court held that although coverage for the underlying claim against Bob Baker Lexus was within the scope of the Tokio Marine insurance policy, the claim nevertheless fell within the

1 Completed Operations exclusion. (Id. at 8) As such, the Court dismissed without prejudice 2 Plaintiff's declaratory relief and other claims. (Id. at 9)

3 Bob Baker Lexus filed a First Amended Complaint ("FAC") on November 22, 2011, (FAC, 4 ECF No. 14), and Tokio Marine again moved to dismiss on December 12, 2011, (Mot. to Dismiss, 5 ECF No. 15).

6 LEGAL STANDARD

7 Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 12(b)(6) permits a party to raise by motion the defense that 8 the complaint "fail[s] to state a claim upon which relief can be granted," generally referred to as a 9 motion to dismiss. The Court evaluates whether a complaint states a cognizable legal theory and 10 sufficient facts in light of Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 8(a), which requires a "short and plain 11 statement of the claim showing that the pleader is entitled to relief." Although Rule 8 "does not 12 require 'detailed factual allegations,' . . . it [does] demand[] more than an unadorned, the-13 defendant-unlawfully-harmed-me accusation." Ashcroft v. Iqbal, 556 U.S. 662, 129 S. Ct. 1937, 14 1949 (2009) (quoting Bell Atl. Corp. v. Twombly, 550 U.S. 544, 555 (2007)). In other words, "a 15 plaintiff's obligation to provide the 'grounds' of his 'entitle[ment] to relief' requires more than 16 labels and conclusions, and a formulaic recitation of the elements of a cause of action will not do."
 17 Twombly, 550 U.S. at 555 (citing Papasan v. Allain, 478 U.S. 265, 286 (1986)). "Nor does a 18 complaint suffice if it tenders 'naked assertion[s]' devoid of 'further factual enhancement.'" Iqbal, 19 129 S. Ct. at 1949 (citing Twombly, 550 U.S. at 557).

20 "To survive a motion to dismiss, a complaint must contain sufficient factual matter, 21 accepted as true, to 'state a claim to relief that is plausible on its face.'" Id. (quoting Twombly, 22 550 U.S. at 570); see also Fed. R. Civ. P. 12(b)(6). A claim is facially plausible when the facts 23 pled "allow[] the court to draw the reasonable inference that the defendant is liable for the 24 misconduct alleged." Id. (citing Twombly, 550 U.S. at 556). That is not to say that the claim must 25 be probable, but there must be "more than a sheer possibility that a defendant has acted 26 unlawfully." Id. Facts "'merely consistent with' a defendant's liability" fall short of a plausible 27 entitlement to relief. Id. (quoting Twombly, 550 U.S. at 557). Further, the Court need not accept 28 as true "legal conclusions" contained in the complaint. Id. This review requires context-specific analysis involving the Court’s “judicial experience and common sense.” Id. at 1950 (citation omitted). “[W]here the well-pleaded facts do not permit the court to infer more than the mere possibility of misconduct, the complaint has alleged—but it has not ‘show[n]’—‘that the pleader is entitled to relief.’” Id. Moreover, “for a complaint to be dismissed because the allegations give rise to an affirmative defense[,] the defense clearly must appear on the face of the pleading.” McCalden v. Ca. Library Ass’n, 955 F.2d 1214, 1219 (9th Cir. 1990).

Where a motion to dismiss is granted, “leave to amend should be granted ‘unless the court determines that the allegation of other facts consistent with the challenged pleading could not possibly cure the deficiency.’” DeSoto v. Yellow Freight Sys., Inc., 957 F.2d 655, 658 (9th Cir. 1992) (quoting Schreiber Distrib. Co. v. Serv-Well Furniture Co., 806 F.2d 1393, 1401 (9th Cir. 1986)). In other words, where leave to amend would be futile, the Court may deny leave to amend. See Desoto, 957 F.2d at 658; Schreiber, 806 F.2d at 1401.

Bob Baker Lexus urges that the FAC should not be dismissed because (1) the correct interpretation of the policy compels a finding of potential coverage, (2) the history of the subject policies compels a finding of potential coverage, (3) the history between the parties reveals an admission of coverage, and (4) the underlying claims and potential claims are covered. (See Resp. in Opp’n, ECF No. 17)¹ The Court considers each argument in turn.

1. Interpretation of the Policy

In this Court’s prior Order, it conducted a thorough analysis of the Tokio Marine insurance policy. (Order, Nov. 8, 2011, at 4–9, ECF No. 13) Applying California insurance contract interpretation principles, the Court determined that the claim asserted in the underlying action was “unambiguously within the scope of the policy.” (Id. at 7) Nevertheless, the Court found that the “‘Completed Operations’ exclusion in the Tokio Marine policy is not ambiguous,” and that ¹ Bob Baker Lexus further requests that “in the event that this Court fails to find that the actual and potential theories at issue in the Underlying Action trigger coverage under the Policies,” the Court stay the instant action “until such time that discovery (or trial) is completed in the Underlying Action so that a coverage determination can be made based on all of the theories advanced therein.” (Resp. in Opp’n 11, ECF No. 17) The Court doubts that a stay on this basis would be appropriate, and notes that to the extent Bob Baker Lexus is requesting a stay, such a request must be made by noticed motion.

1 “claims arising out of Plaintiff’s work—which encompasses Plaintiff’s service on the 2 vehicle—after that work is completed are excluded from coverage under the insurance policy.”
 3 (Id. at 8)

4 Plaintiff’s opposition brief on this point is a verbatim copy of its opposition filed in 5 support of the prior motion to dismiss in this case. Compare (Resp. in Opp’n 2–3, 9–11, ECF No.
 6 17), with (Resp. in Opp’n 2–4, 4–7, ECF No. 10). This is tantamount to a request for 7 reconsideration of the Court’s prior Order, but in a procedurally improper manner and without any 8 asserted justification for reconsideration.² See Sch. Dist. No. 1J v. ACandS, Inc., 5 F.3d 1255, 9 1263 (9th Cir. 1993) (indicating that reconsideration of a prior order is “appropriate if the district 10 court (1) is presented with newly discovered evidence; (2) committed clear error or the initial 11 decision was manifestly unjust; or (3) if there is an intervening change in controlling law”).
 12 Accordingly, the Court will not disturb its prior Order interpreting the insurance policy.

13 2. History of the Policies

14 Bob Baker Lexus further argues that “Toyota/Lexus specifically negotiated with Tokio 15 Marine to obtain insurance coverage, and Tokio Marine actually intended to provide coverage, that 16 would insulate participating dealers from liability for any claims arising out of Lexus Customer 17 Convenience System (hereinafter “LCCS”) operations.” (Resp. in Opp’n 3–4, ECF No. 17) 18 Specifically, Bob Baker Lexus points to the LCCS manual, which includes information regarding 19 insurance coverage for LCCS-participating dealers, such as Bob Baker Lexus. And, according to 20 Bob Baker Lexus, “[t]he language from the LCCS manual establishes that the intended purpose 21 (and, indeed, a reasonable interpretation) of the Policies was to insulate Bob Baker’s loaner car 22 operation from the remainder of its business.” (Id.)

23 It is true that a court must interpret an insurance contract “to give effect to the mutual 24 intention of the parties as it existed at the time of contracting.” Cal. Civ. Code § 1636. Even if the

 26 ² At oral argument, counsel for Bob Baker Lexus argued that this should not be viewed as a 27 motion for reconsideration in light of the “additional allegations in the amended complaint with 28 respect to the reasonable expectations of the insured.” (Unofficial Tr. 3) The Court has already ruled as to the proper interpretation of Tokio Marine’s insurance policy, however, and that interpretation stands here. See Milgard Tempering v. Selar Corp. of Am., 902 F.2d 703, 715 (9th Cir. 1990) (law of the case doctrine).

1 LCCS manual were to guide a different interpretation of the insurance policies at issue, however, 2 California insurance law is clear that for written contracts, “the intention of the parties is to be 3 ascertained from the writing alone, if possible.” Cal. Civ. Code § 1639; see also Haynes v.
 4 Farmers Ins. Exch., 89 P.3d 381, 385 (Cal. 2004) (applying section 1639 to an insurance contract).
 5 Here, the Court has already held that the language of the policies is unambiguous. (Order, Nov. 8, 6 2011, at 7, 8, ECF No. 13) Thus, the Court need not look to extrinsic evidence such as the LCCS 7 manual in order to determine whether there is coverage here.

8 Nevertheless, a review of the LCCS manual does not alter the Court’s conclusion. The 9 manual indicates that insurance coverage is provided to “ensure[] that the dealer’s [Bob Baker 10 Lexus] garage liability policy is not adversely affected from claims resulting from service loaner 11 activity.” (FAC Ex. 3, at 32, ECF No. 14)³ The manual goes on to explain that the insurance 12 provides “[c]ollision coverage,” “[c]omprehensive coverage,” and protects the dealership from 13 bodily injury and property damage liability exposures. (Id. at 34) The manual does not indicate 14 that the insurance is intended to protect Bob Baker Lexus from liability arising out of its negligent 15 maintenance or service of an automobile, however. And while the maintenance and service of its 16 loaner fleet of vehicles may conceivably fall within “service loaner activity,” the Court does not 17 find that the LCCS manual compels a different reading of the insurance policies at issue, 18 especially where California law dictates that “where the language of a contract is clear, we 19 ascertain intent from the plain meaning of its terms and go no further.” Blackhawk Corp. v.
 20 Gotham Ins. Co., 63 Cal. Rptr. 2d 413, 418 (Cal. Ct. App. 1997).

21 3. History Between the Parties

22 Bob Baker Lexus further contends that Tokio Marine’s action of offering to tender the 23 policy limits of the Primary Policy . . . acknowledge[s] the existence of coverage and the lack of 24 any coverage defenses under the Primary Policy.” (FAC ¶ 29, ECF No. 14) Specifically, Bob 25 Baker Lexus points to a January 27, 2010, letter wherein Tokio Marine stated that it was “ready to 26 pay its applicable limits of $15,000 per person and $30,000 per accident,” (FAC Ex. 6, at 88, ECF 27 No. 14), and an April 25, 2010, letter wherein Tokio Marine stated 28 ³ Pin cites to exhibits to the FAC utilize the page numbers assigned by CM/ECF.

Tokio Marine Nichido has previously offered the MFR limits of policy CA 859 000 404 - for bodily injury, those are $15,000 per person and $30,000 per accident - on the assumption that a claim would be made with respect to Bob Baker Lexus' ownership of the subject auto. Although, as drafted, the Complaint does not assert such a claim, Tokio Marine Nichido does not withdraw this previous offer.

(id. Ex. 7, at 94, ECF No. 14)⁴

Bob Baker Lexus contends that these statements constitute an admission by Tokio Marine "that there is the potential for coverage in the Underlying Action," such that Tokio Marine would have a duty to defend. (Resp. in Opp'n 6, ECF No. 17) The Court disagrees. Indeed, the very next sentence in the April 25, 2010, letter states the following: "However, since the Complaint does not allege a loss potentially within the coverage of policy CA 859 000 404, Tokio Marine Nichido denies any duty to defend this lawsuit." (FAC Ex. 7, at 95, ECF No. 14) The Court therefore finds Plaintiff's argument unavailing; Tokio Marine at no point admitted potential coverage, and any alleged admission would not disrupt the Court's conclusion that there is no potential for coverage.

4. Coverage of Underlying Claims and Potential Claims

Finally, Bob Baker Lexus continues to argue not only that the underlying claims are potentially covered by the Tokio Marine insurance policies, but also that the underlying complaint could be amended to allege additional claims that could potentially be covered. (Resp. in Opp'n 6-7, ECF No. 17) At present, the underlying action asserts only a cause of action for negligence against Bob Baker Lexus, relating to its "maintenance, care and servicing" of the subject vehicle. (Compl. Ex. 1, at 5, ECF No. 1-1) Although the original complaint in the underlying action

⁴ Tokio Marine argues in its reply brief that there was an additional letter dated May 28, 2010, wherein Tokio Marine rescinded its offer of the policy limits. (Reply in Supp. 5, ECF No. 18) That letter stated, in relevant part:

You object that Tokio Marine has continued to offer the MFR limits of $15,000 per person and $30,000 per accident. Tokio Marine had first tendered these limits before the complaint was filed. Bob Baker, as owner of the auto, could be vicariously liable under the owners liability law. Of course, the complaint has not made such a claim. Tokio Marine did leave this authority extended, because it had already been offered. But given your argument that it is inconsistent for Tokio Marine to leave that authority extended, in light of the allegations of the lawsuit and Tokio Marine's coverage position, Tokio Marine withdraws that authority. Tokio Marine disputes National Union's assertion that this constitutes an admission.

(Decl. of Timothy M. Thorton ISO Mot. to Dismiss Ex. B, at 3, ECF No. 21-2)

1 included a cause of action for products liability, the products liability claim was later settled for a 2 release of all parties, including Bob Baker Lexus. (Mot. to Dismiss Ex. A, ECF No. 15-1 3 (Settlement Agreement and Release))

4 The Court has already determined that Plaintiff's negligent "maintenance, care and 5 servicing" of the vehicle—all that is asserted in the underlying action—falls within the Completed 6 Operations exclusion and therefore there is no possibility of coverage under the policy. (Order, 7 Nov. 8, 2011, at 8, ECF No. 13) Nevertheless, Bob Baker Lexus contends that there remains some 8 as-yet unarticulated theory of recovery that could potentially be covered. Bob Baker Lexus alleges 9 that the underlying complaint could be amended to allege Bob Baker Lexus' "fail[ure] to correct a 10 known problem with the Vehicle," "provid[ing] a defective vehicle to the decedents," or "fail[ure] 11 to warn of the dangers associated with the vehicle," (FAC ¶ 16, ECF No. 14), all pertaining "to an 12 alleged design or manufacturing defect" in the leased vehicle. (id. ¶ 17). But the underlying 13 complaint cannot be amended to include any of these claims in light of the settlement agreement 14 between the parties.

15 The Settlement Agreement released all claims except those that were reserved in the 16 agreement:

17 "RESERVED CLAIMS": Includes only claims of alleged independent negligence 18 against defendant dealer El Cajon Luxury Cars, Inc. dba Bob Baker Lexus. RESERVED CLAIMS does include all issues of negligence against El Cajon Luxury 19 Cars, Inc. dba Bob Baker Lexus arising from the death of the Decedents, including 20 but not limited to Baker's alleged negligence arising from its alleged improper 21 maintenance, repair, or preparation of the VEHICLE, and any alleged negligence in 22 connection with the placement, replacement, fitting, use, selection or installation 23 related to the floor mats in the VEHICLE. RESERVED CLAIMS does not include 24 any product liability related claims or causes of action regardless of whether stated 25 as negligence, strict products liability, breach of any warranty, including any express, 26 implied or certified used vehicle warranty, or failure to warn of any alleged product 27 defect. RESERVED CLAIMS does not include claims against El Cajon Luxury 28 Cars, Inc. dba Bob Baker Lexus for bodily injury, property damage or breach of warranty caused solely by an alleged defect in design, manufacture or assembly of the VEHICLE, or any alleged misrepresentations, misleading statements, unfair or deceptive trade practices of RELEASEES.

(Mot. to Dismiss Ex. A, at 7, ECF No. 15-1) Thus, the Settlement Agreement prevents the underlying complaint from being amended to include any product liability-related claims, such as those proposed by Bob Baker Lexus in the FAC. Because the underlying complaint could not be amended to include the theories Bob Baker Lexus points to in the FAC, Bob Baker Lexus has not 1 alleged any theory of liability that would potentially be covered by the Tokio Marine policy. For 2 this reason, the FAC must be dismissed.

3 The Court dismisses the FAC without prejudice, however. Though not articulated in 4 Plaintiff's opposition papers,⁵ at oral argument Bob Baker Lexus presented an additional theory of 5 liability that could be asserted in the underlying action, which the Court finds would potentially be 6 covered by the Tokio Marine insurance policy. Namely, Plaintiff's counsel indicated that "the 7 prior renter [brought] in [the subject] vehicle [to Bob Baker Lexus], [said to the rental clerk] 'I had 8 an unanticipated acceleration event and you guys should look into this,' and the rental clerk 9 essentially said, 'oh, that sounds horrible, we'll look into it,' and nothing was done." (Unofficial 10 Tr. 5) Based on this, Plaintiff's counsel identified an alternative theory of liability: Bob Baker 11 Lexus had notice of a dangerous problem with the vehicle, and yet negligently rented the vehicle 12 to another customer. This theory of liability does not arise out of Plaintiff's "work" on the vehicle, 13 and is not tied to any product liability-based claim. As such, the Court is convinced that Bob 14 Baker Lexus could amend the FAC to allege a theory of liability that would potentially be covered 15 by Tokio Marine's policy.

16 CONCLUSION

17 For the reasons stated above, the Court GRANTS Tokio Marine's motion to dismiss. The 18 Court DISMISSES the FAC WITHOUT PREJUDICE to Bob Baker Lexus amending it to 19 include allegations of a theory of liability that could potentially be covered by the Tokio Marine

21 ⁵ Bob Baker Lexus did briefly address this argument in its opposition to the prior motion to 22 dismiss, stating that

23 the customer who drove the subject vehicle immediately before the fatal accident, 24 Frank Bernard, testified that he informed Bob Baker of an unintended acceleration 25 event. If it is proven in the Underlying Action that Bob Baker failed to appropriately 26 respond to this information, then the claim would be founded on the failure to investigate a potential problem with the Vehicle. Even if, as Defendant asserts, the completed operations exclusion applies in this case, this theory of liability would not fall within the exclusion.

27 (Resp. in Opp'n 8, ECF No. 10) Having expanded on this potential theory of liability during oral 28 argument, the Court is now convinced that such a claim would potentially be covered by the Tokio Marine policy. To the extent that the Court suggested otherwise in its prior Order, (Order, Nov. 8, 2011, at 9, ECF No. 13), this Order clarifies that such a claim would not be covered by the Completed
